

On almost every special occasion, holiday, or momentous family gathering we put on our finest attire to announce our celebration of the event. There is something special about dressing up — it expresses your personal style and marks the day as being uniquely special. Dressing up art projects with embellishments, colors, and stamps can have the same charming effect, so we are playing dress up for this issue's Tempting Template. From elegant to outrageous, this dress template is the perfect way to express your creative style. Send in your dresses for possible publication in our December/January 2011 issue.
